RE: Change for Reporting and Remitting Royalty Payments

We are reaching out to inform you of a change in procedures related to the reporting and remitting of unclaimed property royalty payments to the State of Wyoming.

Wyoming no longer requires that you submit ongoing monthly royalty payments tied to extraction locations reported in a prior reporting cycle. Instead, starting with Wyoming's reporting period for 2027, holders should report these properties and payments during the regular annual reporting.

Holders should submit extraction location information in addition to the identifying information that has been submitted in the past. As states move to the NAUPA III filing standard in the future, there will be fields for additional information and we encourage you to provide as much identifying data as is available.

If you have already started the former process of making payments for the next month and would like to complete that payment cycle before moving toward the new annual reporting process, you may complete the current payment cycle.

Please contact me or our reporting specialist, Heather Schoeneberg, if you have any questions or would like further guidance.

Sincerely,

Noelle Reed
Administrator of Unclaimed Property
